INTRODUCTION

The Ganier Photographic Collection, 1900-1955, contains materials relative to Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr., known as “the John James Audubon of Tennessee,” and his work relating to ornithology. This collection holds a photographic history of the early years of the Tennessee Ornithology Society, of which Albert Ganier was one of the founders. This collection also possesses an interesting photographic survey of old houses located in the mid-State region of Tennessee, and various photos of different birds and bird habitats. This collection is a gift of Dr. Wintfred L. Smith, Professor of Biology, University of Tennessee at Martin. The collection occupies 2.0 cubic feet of shelf space and has no restrictions.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Albert F. Ganier Photographic Collection consists of the personal photographs of Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr., and (1883-1973), a noted civil engineer, historian, and ornithologist. This collection contains numerous photos of various field trips of the Tennessee Ornithological Society (of which Ganier was a co-founder), old houses and buildings located within Tennessee and the southeast, of research into the story of Alvin C. York-conducted for Warner Brothers Studio in preparation for the filming of the motion picture "Sergeant York." Ganier also had several interesting prints of his travels to California in 1939 for the American Ornithological Union meeting, and visited the San Francisco Exposition while there. Numerous photographs of birds and bird habitats are included, giving evidence to the reference of Ganier as the "John James Audubon of Tennessee." An interesting print relating to the steamboat wharf in Nashville, Tennessee, ca. 1907 is included in this collection. Several photographic negatives of the Ganier family are also in this series.

As this collection was processed, it became apparent that a number of either photographic prints and/or negatives were missing from the original acquisition. Therefore, a special numbering system has been devised in order to assist any researchers in this collection. The legend for the contents of this series is as follows:

GAN000	This indicates that a photographic print and corresponding negatives is available.
*GAN000	This indicates that a photographic print is available, but lacks a corresponding negative.
GAN000C	This indicates a copy of a photographic print or negative.
GAN000PC	This indicates a copy that the item is a postcard.
GAN000N	This indicates a photographic negative.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr. was born on September 9, 1883, outside of Vicksburg, Mississippi. He graduated in 1908 with a degree in civil engineering from Purdue University and was hired that same year as an engineer of design for the Nashville, Chattanooga, and St. Louis Railway. In 1912 he married Anna Eastman of Nashville, Tennessee and they had two sons and one daughter. In 1915 he was the co-founded the Engineers Association of Nashville and served as its president until 1924. He also co-founded the Tennessee Ornithological Society in Nashville and served as its president from 1922-23, 1930-31, and 1942-46. Ganier also served as the Society's editor of its official publication "The Migrant" form 1935-39, and 1942-46, and as the Society's curator for many years.

In 1918 he was elected as secretary to the Wilson Ornithological Society, and further served as its president from 1924-26. In 1933 he published "A Distributional List of the Birds of Tennessee," along with "Waterbirds of Reel Foot Lake." In 1940 he was appointed by Governor Prentice Cooper as adviser, contact person with Warner Brothers Studios during its visit to Jamestown, Tennessee in preparation for the filming of "Sergeant York." In 1946 Ganier was the confounder of the Nashville Children's Museum, serving on its Board of Directors for over ten years. In 1954 Ganier served as historian for the Tennessee Division of the Natchez Trace Parkway Association.

From 1954-56, he served as president of the Tennessee Historical Society. In 1955 he served as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Belle Meade Mansion, and supervised the restoration of its grounds. In 1964 Ganier was a charter member of the Middle Tennessee Conservancy Council, and worked to locate the original site of the Natchez Trace's final segment in Tennessee. In 1966 he received the Governor's Award from the Tennessee Conservation League. Ganier died in 1973, in Nashville, Tennessee. There was a monument erected in the Radnor Lake State Natural Area in his honor in 1978.
