Economic Impact Statement:

1. Types of small businesses directly affected:

The type or types of small businesses that might be affected by the requirements of the proposed rules includes insurance producers that offer, solicit, assist, administrate, insure, or negotiate insurance in this State. However, the proposed amendment will not create any additional costs to insurance producers currently licensed in this State. New licensees will be required to submit criminal background checks which create additional costs for those applicants.

2. Projected reporting, recordkeeping, and other administrative costs:

The administrative costs are thought to be minimal to implement.

3. Probable effect on small businesses:

Licensees will have to establish and follow responsible procedures to comply with the mandates of the proposed rules. Insurance producers are currently required to obtain twenty-four hours of continuing education credits in a biennium period. The additional requirement will not have an adverse effect on those licensees. Small businesses will not be placed at a disadvantage by having to comply with these rules.

4. Less burdensome, intrusive, or costly alternative methods:

The amendment is the least burdensome means of meeting the objectives of the General Assembly and the NAIC.

5. Comparison with federal and state counterparts:

A search has been conducted to determine which states have taken the described actions notated in the proposed amendment. A number of states have issued bulletins, or adopted similar regulations or legislation, including:

- Alabama
- Arkansas
- Georgia
- Louisiana
- Pennsylvania
- South Carolina
- Virginia
- West Virginia

6. Effect of possible exemption of small businesses:

Small businesses cannot be exempted due to the nature and importance of these regulations. These regulations are designed to implement procedures to create uniformity amongst the states. These procedures provide a mechanism whereby the small businesses are enhanced by streamlining the requirements of states that license insurance producers. In addition, the procedures add the conveniences of alternative methods of obtaining continuing education credits through electronic means.
