IN MEMORIAM.

Mr. Robert N. Jordan, son of Henry and Elizabeth Jordan, was born Sept. 17, 1867, and died on Sept. 8, 1887, of typhoid fever. His sufferings were great, but he bore them with christian fortitude, and was never heard to murmur or complain. He was a kind and obedient son, a loving and affectionate brother and was beloved by all who knew him. He possessed every quality of being a useful and highly esteemed young man, but God who is too good to be unkind, saw fit to remove him from the presence of kindred and friends. His loving family, kind friends and attending physicians did all they could for him. He leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn for him.

My friends, come sympathize with me,
while I my sorrow tell,
How death's cold hand has carried away,
the one I loved so well.
My earthly all to me is lost, but I will not complain,
He is free from grief and sorrow—my loss
is but his gain. S. E. M.
