

Historical Note, Tennessee civil and military commission book, volume 1

Centralized civil and military institutions that provided the foundations of security, liberty, public order, and social control in counties as Tennessee made the transition from frontier territory to more civilized statehood are represented by the recording of those names of civil and military authorities recognized and legitimized by the Governor in this founding commission volume.