MICROFILMED

INTRODUCTION

Mrs. Charles T. Hibbett compiled the seventeen scrapbooks during World War II and gave them to the Tennessee State Library and Archives during the early 1950's. The scrapbooks occupy 6.0 cubic feet of shelf space in 17 volumes.

Literary rights have been dedicated to the public. Single photocopies may be made for purposes of scholarly research. These scrapbooks have been microfilmed in the interests of historical preservation, and it is recommended that the microfilm be used in place of the original scrapbook.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The seventeen World War II scrapbooks were compiled by Mrs. Charles T. Hibbett. She began them in 1939 and concluded them in 1945 when the war ended. They are composed primarily of cartoons and photographs together with some clippings and memorabilia. The materials were obtained from newspapers, magazines and pamphlets. All persons who attained any importance or notoriety during this period are almost certain to be represented. The cartoons are particularly interesting. Pictures of Franklin Roosevelt, Winston Churchill, Adolph Hitler, Joseph Stalin, Eisenhower, Montgomery, and numerous others in various phases of their careers are well represented in these volumes. Anyone making a study of World War II would find it worth their while to peruse these volumes.
